

Code of Conduct Policy

Category: Conduct | Effective: January 2025 | Version 1.0

The Code of Conduct Policy establishes clear expectations regarding professional behavior, ethical standards, and compliance with company rules and applicable Lebanese labor laws. This policy aims to ensure a respectful, inclusive, and legally compliant workplace environment. All employees of inmind.ai are required to familiarize themselves with this policy and uphold its principles as part of their professional responsibilities. Any violations of this policy will be addressed promptly and appropriately to maintain the integrity of the organization and its operations.

1. Standard of Professional Behavior

Employees are expected to demonstrate integrity, respect, and accountability in all aspects of their professional conduct. This includes:

- Treating colleagues, clients, and external stakeholders with dignity and respect.
- Refraining from discriminatory, harassing, or bullying behavior based on race, gender, religion, age, disability, or any other protected characteristic as per Lebanese labor law.
- Collaborating effectively and respectfully with team members to achieve organizational goals.

2. Compliance with Company Rules and Legal Requirements

Employees must adhere to all corporate policies, operational procedures, and applicable Lebanese labor regulations. The company will provide regular training and updates on relevant laws to ensure awareness and compliance. Noncompliance, including engaging in illegal activities or violating company rules, will be subject to disciplinary action.

3. Confidentiality and Data Protection

Maintaining confidentiality is paramount. Employees must:

- Safeguard sensitive company information, including trade secrets, financial data, client information, and intellectual property.
- Refrain from disclosing confidential information to unauthorized individuals or external entities, even after the termination of their employment.
- Adhere to applicable data protection laws, such as the Lebanese Electronic Transactions and Personal Data Law (Law No. 81 of 2018).

Unauthorized disclosure of confidential information will result in disciplinary action, including possible termination and legal recourse.

4. Use of Company Assets

Employees are entrusted with company resources, including computers, software, and office supplies, and must use them responsibly. Misuse, including theft, fraud, or unauthorized personal use, will not be tolerated. Employees are responsible for:

- Ensuring proper use and care of company assets.
- Reporting any damage, loss, or misuse to their immediate supervisor.

5. Workplace Attire and Professional Appearance

Employees are required to wear appropriate attire that reflects professionalism and aligns with the company's image. Specific guidelines include:

- Business casual dress code for regular workdays unless otherwise specified.
- Adherence to safety and protective clothing requirements, where applicable.
- Exceptions may be made for religious or cultural attire consistent with the principles of inclusivity.

6. Conflict of Interest

Employees must avoid conflicts of interest that could compromise the company's operations or reputation. If a potential conflict arises, employees are required to:

- Disclose the matter in writing to their manager or the HR department immediately.
- Refrain from participating in decisions or activities that may present a conflict until the matter is resolved.

Examples of conflicts of interest include, but are not limited to:

- Engaging in outside employment or business activities that compete with the company.
- Accepting gifts or favors from clients or vendors that could influence decisions.

7. Reporting Violations

The company encourages employees to report any violations of this policy, whether they involve themselves, colleagues, or management. Reporting channels include:

- Direct reporting to immediate supervisors.
- Filing a formal complaint with the HR department.
- Utilizing the confidential whistleblower hotline, where anonymity is guaranteed.

All reports will be treated seriously and investigated promptly. Retaliation against individuals who report violations in good faith is strictly prohibited and will be subject to disciplinary action.

8. Disciplinary Actions

Violations of the Code of Conduct Policy will result in corrective measures, which may include the following, depending on the severity and nature of the breach:

- Verbal or written warnings.
- Suspension without pay.
- Termination of employment.
- Legal action, where necessary, in accordance with Lebanese labor laws.

Disciplinary actions will be determined by management in consultation with the HR department and will be communicated to the employee in writing.

9. Responsibilities

- Employee Responsibilities: Employees are responsible for understanding and adhering to the Code of Conduct Policy. They must participate in training sessions and seek clarification from HR if any aspect of the policy is unclear.
- Employer Responsibilities: The company is responsible for providing a safe and inclusive work environment, offering training on ethical practices, and ensuring that all employees are aware of their rights and responsibilities under this policy. The company will also ensure that all reports of misconduct are addressed fairly and confidentially.

10. Exceptions and Limitations

Certain provisions of this policy may have exceptions, such as:

- Workplace attire requirements may be adjusted based on specific job roles or cultural/religious needs.
- Instances of conflict of interest may be resolved through predefined agreements, provided they do not harm the company's interests.

Any requested exception must be formally submitted to the HR department for review and approval. Exceptions will be granted on a case-by-case basis, and decisions will be documented.

11. Compliance and Review

This policy is subject to periodic review to ensure alignment with Lebanese labor laws and evolving organizational needs. Employees will be notified of any updates or changes to the policy. Failure to comply with this policy may result in disciplinary action, as outlined above.

By adhering to this Code of Conduct Policy, employees contribute to a professional, ethical, and harmonious workplace that supports the company's mission and values.
