

Working Hours Policy

Category: Working Hours | Effective: January 2025 | Version 1.0

The Working Hours Policy establishes the guidelines and expectations for employees' work schedules, including regular working hours, overtime, and attendance, in full compliance with Lebanese Labour Law. This policy ensures operational efficiency, promotes fairness, and safeguards employees' rights to appropriate working conditions.

1. Standard Working Hours:

The standard working hours are fixed at 8 hours per day and 48 hours per week, excluding lunch and rest breaks. Employees are entitled to one full rest day per week, typically on Sundays unless otherwise stipulated in their employment contract or agreed upon with management. For roles requiring weekend work, an alternative rest day will be provided during the workweek. Employees must adhere to their assigned schedules and are expected to be punctual to ensure the smooth functioning of business operations.

2. Attendance and Time Tracking:

All employees are required to accurately record their working hours using the company's designated attendance tracking system. This may include biometric systems, manual attendance logs, or software solutions as determined by the management. Employees must report any discrepancies in their recorded hours to the Human Resources (HR) department within 24 hours of identifying the issue. Supervisors are responsible for reviewing attendance records regularly to ensure compliance and to address any irregularities promptly.

3. Overtime Work:

Any work performed beyond the standard 8 hours per day or 48 hours per week is classified as overtime. Overtime is voluntary and must be pre-approved by the employee's direct supervisor. The approval process includes submitting a formal request at least 24 hours before the anticipated overtime, unless the overtime is required to address an urgent operational need. Compensation for overtime will be calculated in accordance with Lebanese Labour Law, which mandates payment at a rate of 1.5 times the employee's regular hourly wage for overtime hours. In cases where the overtime exceeds 12 hours in a single week, employees may also be entitled to additional rest days or compensatory time off, subject to management approval.

4. Flexible Working Hours:

The company recognizes the need for flexibility in certain roles and under specific circumstances. Flexible working hours may be granted to employees whose roles do not require strict adherence to a fixed schedule, such as remote workers or project-based employees. To request flexible hours, employees must submit a formal application to their supervisor and HR, outlining the reasons for the request and how they plan to maintain their productivity. Approval is subject to operational requirements, and the arrangement will be reviewed periodically to ensure its feasibility and alignment with company goals.

5. Rest Breaks:

Employees are entitled to a daily lunch break of at least one continuous hour, as mandated by Lebanese Labour Law. Additional short breaks may be allocated based on the nature of work and department-specific policies. Breaks are not included in the calculation of standard working hours. Employees are encouraged to utilize their breaks to rest and recharge to maintain productivity and well-being.

6. Exceptions to Standard Working Hours:

Certain roles may require deviations from the standard working hours, such as night shifts, rotational schedules, or extended hours during peak operational periods. In such cases, employees will be notified in advance, and the company will ensure compliance with applicable laws regarding rest periods and compensation. Temporary changes in working hours due to business needs, such as project deadlines or emergencies, will be communicated at least 48 hours in advance whenever possible. Employees with personal obligations or health conditions that conflict with such changes may request accommodations, which will be considered on a case-by-case basis.

7. Tardiness and Absenteeism:

Employees are expected to report to work on time and adhere to their designated schedules. Tardiness or unexcused absences disrupt the workflow and may affect team productivity. Employees who are unable to report to work on time must inform their supervisor and HR as soon as possible, providing a valid reason and an estimated time of arrival. Repeated instances of tardiness or unexcused absenteeism will be addressed through the company's disciplinary procedures, which may include verbal or written warnings, suspension, or termination in severe cases.

8. Employer Responsibilities:

The company is committed to ensuring compliance with Lebanese Labour Law and providing fair and reasonable working conditions for all employees. This includes:

- Monitoring and enforcing adherence to standard working hours and overtime regulations.
- Maintaining accurate records of employee attendance and overtime work.
- Providing timely and accurate compensation for regular and overtime hours.
- Accommodating reasonable requests for flexible schedules or rest breaks within operational constraints.
- Communicating any changes to working hours or policies in a timely manner.

9. Employee Responsibilities:

Employees are expected to:

- Adhere to their designated working hours and report any anticipated delays to their supervisor.
- Accurately record their attendance and working hours in the approved system.
- Seek prior approval for overtime or flexible working arrangements.
- Utilize rest breaks responsibly to maintain productivity.
- Report any violations of this policy or concerns about working hours to HR for resolution.

10. Compliance and Review:

This policy is designed to comply fully with the provisions of Lebanese Labour Law. Any updates to the law will be reflected in this policy to ensure continued compliance. The HR department will conduct an annual review of the policy to assess its effectiveness and relevance. Employees found violating the provisions of this policy may be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination, depending on the severity of the violation.

By implementing this Working Hours Policy, the company aims to balance operational efficiency with employees' rights, promoting a fair, safe, and productive work environment for all.